HAVE YOU SUFFERED AN INJURY ON THE JOB?

Under the Illinois Workers' Compensation Act, your employer is obligated to pay all reasonable, necessary and related medical expenses. In addition, your employer is obligated to pay you a weekly benefit while you are off work, amounting to two-thirds of your average weekly wage. Once you have finished your treatment, your employer is obligated to pay you a lump sum permanency settlement amount. McNamara Phelan McSteen, LLC has the attorneys and staff to professionally handle any workers' compensation claims as well as any third party cases.

If you sustain an injury, you should be aware that there are strict time limits in which you must provide notice to your employer or file a claim. It is important to have your attorney involved as early as possible so that your case is not compromised. Your initial consultation is free and we do not charge a fee until you win your case. Should you sustain a work related injury, or a non-work related injury as a result of someone else's negligence, please contact our office immediately. We can help.
